Happy Thanksgiving wishes from us to you.

We have so much gratitude for the compassion of our donors, volunteers, and supporters. Thanks to you, people coping with depression, addiction, and trauma become stronger, safer, and more self-sufficient, day by day.

This Thanksgiving . . .

- Survivors of domestic violence will give thanks for greater safety.
- Family members learning to assist a loved one who has mental illness will celebrate time together.
- Children and parents will spend time talking with each other, using skills they have learned to build nurturing relationships.
- Adults who have overcome major challenges to rebuild their lives and reconnect with family will feel the gift of each second.

We wish you a happy Thanksgiving.
