Fact Sheet

About Caminar

Caminar is at the forefront of moving individuals and families toward resilience, wellness, and independence, strengthening our neighborhoods and communities in the process and creating lasting changes.

Since 1964, Caminar’s programs have been guided by a commitment to improving the quality of life for individuals and families living with behavioral health conditions. Community outreach and prevention programs strive to reduce the onset of more severe health conditions.

Our culturally sensitive programs reach more than 20,000 people each year in San Mateo, Santa Clara, San Francisco, Solano, and Butte counties.

We offer CARF accredited programs and use evidence-based models to deliver high quality and effective residential, outpatient, and drop-in services that empower individuals to achieve their goals.

OUR APPROACH
Caminar’s programs deliver culturally sensitive, trauma-informed services that build on personal strengths and empower participants to achieve their goals and enjoy an improved quality of life.

Through our psychosocial rehabilitation and recovery model, participants receive support in connecting with meaningful community opportunities, such as vocational, educational, and social activities, while strengthening coping and life skills.

Butte Region
The Butte Region seeks to increase participants’ levels of independence by offering programs that build self-sufficiency and create community connections. The region offers adults with mental health conditions or developmental disabilities supported employment, supported housing, individualized case management services, as well as employment opportunities in social enterprises (such as Sensible Cyclery).

In addition, adults with development disabilities participate in programs that create community and support social and living skill development.

FCS Division - Santa Clara County
Family & Children Services of Silicon Valley (FCS), established in 1948, became a division of Caminar in 2017.

Services include individual and family mental health programs, outpatient substance use treatment, co-occurring substance use and mental health treatment, family violence and abuse prevention, school-based counseling and family support programs, specialized services for LGBTQ communities (youth and adult), and Deaf/Hard-of-Hearing mental health services. Adults rebuilding their lives after incarceration benefit from targeted relapse prevention and supportive services. FCS also operates the only peer-run overnight respite home for adults in Santa Clara County.

Jobs Plus
Offered in San Francisco, San Mateo, Santa Clara, Solano, and Butte counties.

Jobs Plus partners with employers and employees to create meaningful employment opportunities for individuals often excluded from the workforce due to disabilities. Participants receive job placement assistance and then on-the-job coaching to succeed in their roles, contribute to their companies, and maintain employment. Employers receive assistance in implementing appropriate accommodations.

Olivos
Olivos offers private, personalized, and comprehensive mental health treatment and supportive services. Our highly trained professionals serve people of all ages in their homes, the community, and our offices. We work hand-in-hand with families and all members of the treatment team to wrap services around our clients, always utilizing a strength-based perspective. Learn more at www.caminarolivos.com.

Project Ninety Division
Project Ninety became a division of Caminar in June 2018. For more than four decades, Project Ninety has served individuals and families through its alcohol and substance abuse treatment services. Over the years, Project Ninety has helped more than 23,000 individuals recover from the disease of addiction. Project Ninety's services treat all individuals, regardless of socioeconomic standing, race, cultural background, education, age, or life experience.

San Mateo Region
The San Mateo Region offers transition age youth and adults with serious mental health conditions a personalized continuum of care, including residential treatment, supported housing, intensive case management, and supported education. All programs develop living skills and focus on recovery.

The Assisted Outpatient Treatment (AOT) seeks to engage individuals with severe mental health conditions who are disconnected from care in appropriate treatment. The innovative Medication Clinic and Bridges to Wellness programs support overall health outcomes by integrating physical and behavioral health care.

Solano Region
The Solano Region provides wellness and recovery services for transition age youth and adults living with mental health conditions. Services include crisis residential treatment, individualized case management, medication management, and a wellness and recovery drop-in center. The region is engaged in addressing homelessness through specialized outreach programs, supportive housing services, and operation of the county's Coordinated Entry program.

Our Healthy Partnerships division joined Caminar’s Solano Region in May 2018. Outpatient prevention, intervention and treatment services offered at Healthy Partnerships reflect a deep and abiding belief in the value of treatment; and a strong commitment to promoting recovery on an individual, family and community level.
